

Capo Special Education Community Advisory Committee NEWS

Our final CAC meeting for the 2020 2021 school year, was held on May 27.

Our main focus has become distance learning, and now anticipating what the Fall will look like. Dr. Merwin shared the following update:

We have an exciting new opportunity to share!

Parents Helping Parents is a new support group being offered to parents and caretakers of children with IEPs, 504 plans and/or with any special needs within CUSD. This group is parent-run, non-diagnosis specific and created with the intention of building a positive community of individuals. The goal is to connect people who have unique daily lives and stressors but who can find solidarity and strength with each other. Each meeting ideally leaves attendees feeling better educated and equipped to take on the next day. We're doing everything we can for our kids, but parents need help too! We'll be starting the meetings remotely over the summer, but are looking to meet in person when we can safely do so.

Details to come on first meeting date and time.

Attention school site reps! I am working on emailing everyone individually to see if you are continuing in your position or moving on. Please do not hesitate to reach out to me if we have not yet connected

Something fun for the Summer!
